Auth0 bad http authentication header format errorcode bearer.

Hi, I'm trying to get profile information using endpoint `get / api / v2 / users / myuserid`, but I always get: `{<code>: 400, <error>: "Bad request", <message>: "HTTP authentication header format", <errorcode>: "Carrier"}`. This is the code that I source from the `Var Request = require("request")` documentation: `var options = {method: 'get', URL: 'https://api/v2/users', headers: {Authorization: 'Bearer Access Token'}}; Request(options, function (error, response, body) {if (error) play new error (error); console.log (body);});` The only thing that is changed is that I deleted the query string and inserted my API URL and the same access token that I used in the auth0 management API documents (which works). This page is associated with SPA applications, but native OAuth 2.0 public clients, such as SPA, are also native. When I log in I send the next scopes: `openid profile email offline_access read:users read:user_idp_tokens`. The reason is that social providers access tokens obtained as of a login were obtained through a backend flow where the client authentication could be updated; Because of this the token may have features that are not suitable for a public client (e.g. a prolonged working life). In conclusion, if the above use case assumption is correct, you should probably have a backend API in the middle to handle access tokens from social providers obtained as part of a login and use them to perform actions, but never exposing the native client access token. Finally, if you are wondering why go through this if I will probably need to get a different access token to call the back-end API which, in turn, will use the social access token to do some action. In addition, you still need to ensure proper authentication and authorization in your backend API, but at least you don't expose the tokens directly. One of these operations would be to update `user_metadata`; `h3; reference information on how to get such access token in (Lo recomendable es utilizar HTTPS en conjunto a la autenticaci3n b4Ajsica. Based on the scopes you are requesting, your goal seems to be to obtain end user access tokens associated with a social provider. As I mentioned before, most scopes for Management API can't be obtained in an end-user flow, however, they are 3 it is possible to obtain some scopes that allow the operation to be performed on a single user (the one who logged in). I Like Thank you for your detailed reply. A3 3 m of this is 3 a native application that 3 a public OAuth 2.0 client, you will not be able to run client credentials from that application. The read:users scope would be an example scope that required client credentials; this means that you cannot obtain a valid access token to call an endpoint that requires this scope through an end user-based authentication request. How can I additional p? If the additional p to be added are always related to the user who has completed the login, and) LIWYV2cuVGcypjpbRGZkxWY (a 46esabA 3 nA3 icacfidoc al ne odasab A3 Tse etnatuser gnirts Le.)
